The compensation committee does 22 meet again to review the round two 23 recommendations. It's not typically in the 24 same format as the round one recommendations 25 Page 111 Page 113 meaning business units don't come and 1 AFTERNOON SESSION 2 formally present again. - A. I cannot recall instances where that's happened over e-mail.
  - Q. Any other ways?
- A. Nothing that I can recall at the moment.
- Q. Either by phone or in a face-to-face meeting?
  - A. Right.
- Q. Does HCM IMD prepare the same set of materials for the round two meetings for the round one meeting?
- A. We prepare a similar set of materials. We don't reproduce and I'm looking at the 2010 materials. As an example, we don't reproduce the P&L, the financial package because that stays the same, but in terms of the other summaries and rosters we will refresh those as needed for the new results.
- Q. What's the next step after that second compensation committee meeting?
- A. Assuming no more adjustments are needed we're done with compensation. The numbers are finalized. We submit those to the firm.

- Do you submit them to firm Q. side?
  - A. Firm side comp, yes.
- Does the management committee, the firm wide management committee review those numbers?
- A. My understanding is that they will review the updated numbers.
- Q. Has IMD ever had a third round in the comp process?
- A. It's unusual for us to have a third round, but we have had third round before.
- Q. Do you recall in which years you had third rounds?
- A. We have had third rounds on a couple of occasions and compensation is a very iterative process so in some years it's difficult to clearly delineate what's round two and what's round three because you might 22 feel that there is a round 2A or round 2B or round 2C as recommendations continue to 24 iterate. As far as the specific years, I would say that the more challenging years were the years where we had more iterations and a higher likelihood of having a round three so thinking back possibly 2008, around that time.

- Q. Just to be sure we are using the same terminology, when you say round three, are you referring to an iteration subsequent to submitting round two numbers to firm wide comp?
  - A. Yes.
- Q. As distinguished from round 2A or 2B that would be before you submit to firm wide comp?
  - A. That's right.
- Q. Why have you tended to have -strike that. Why is there a higher likelihood of having a round three in more challenging years?
- A. We would have a round three in response to even more additional guidance from the firm once they have reviewed our macro results. In more challenging years as the firm's performance continues -- as the firm continues to get more data points on performance both at the Goldman level as well as IMD level, there is a possibility that they may give updated guidance meaning giving us more money or asking us to take away even more than what we did during round two.

Q. Other than giving more money or less money to IMD, are you aware of any other reasons for round three?

A. I'm not.

- Q. We've been talking about the compensation process and I'd like to shift focus a little bit to compensation decisions. I'd like to focus for now on the time period from 2002 to 2010, okay?
- Q. This has been previously marked as Exhibit 132. Do you recognize this document?
- A. Let me take a moment to scan it.

MS. SHAVER: I'll note for the record that the numbers are consecutive, but it does appear that they were produced out of order, but we have chosen to put the exhibit in the correction order of the Bates number.

CHEN-OSTER, et al. vs. GOLDMAN SACHS, et al.

- Q. Do you recognize this document?
- A. I do recognize parts of this document, yes.
  - Q. Can you tell me what it is?
- A. My understanding is that this document is from 2006 and my understanding is also that it's a firm wide document and it talks about a firm wide change in moving from a so-called compensation quartile or quartile that was primarily used for compensation to a quartile that in this year was called manager performance rating.
- O. Was it called manager performance rank?
  - Manager performance rank.
- Was this document distributed to employees in IMD?
- A. I do not believe this was distributed to all employees in IMD.
- Q. Was it distributed to any employees in IMD?
  - A. I don't believe so.
- Q. Does the policy change described in this document apply to IMD? MS. SULLIVAN: Objection vague

Page 119

- A. At a practical level it didn't change how IMD did its quartiling process or what was called the MPR process in this year.
- Q. Is that because IMD already did that?
- A. Yes, in the sense that performance potential was always considered as factors into the quartile or manager performance rank and quartile was not used in the formulaic way that's described in this document for compensation.
- Q. In 2006 did IMD use the manager performance rank instead of manager quartile?
- A. Yes, essentially it was the manager quartile, it was just called the manager performance rank.
- Q. In previous years it had been called the quartile and in 2006 it was called 19 a rank, but it's the same thing; is that 20 fair?
  - A. Yes, so previously it was called quartile, then it became manager performance rank or MPR and then we changed back to quartiling, but it was the same process.

Was that change back in 2008?

- The change from MPR back to quartiling?
  - O. Yes.
  - That sounds about right.
- Is it your understanding that this document the manager guidelines set forth in this document are meant to apply 9 firm wide?
  - A. Given that this is a firm wide document at a high level, this is meant to apply to all divisions in the firm, but of course divisions will have their own nuances as well.
  - Q. Do you know who's the author of this document?
  - A. I believe it would be the talent assessment group.
  - Q. Do you know which employees in investment management if any would have received and reviewed this document?
  - A. I'm not sure, but if we did distribute this document to employees in IMD, it would have gone to our managers who were involved in the process.

Page 120

- Q. Could you please take a look at what's the third page of the document Bates marked 122589?
  - A. Sure.
- Q. Entitled guidelines for compensation proposals, you with me?
  - A. I'm with you.
- It reads the compensation proposal for each individual should reflect and then it sets forth four bullet points. Could you read those to yourself, please?
  - A. Okay.
- 13 Q. Is it true in IMD that these 14 four factors are considered in manager's 15 compensation proposals? 16
  - A. It's true.
  - Q. How do managers ascertain P&L impact in IMD?
  - So as I said before, managers in the business receive regular reporting both from their own business unit reporting management teams as well as from our CFO team so they have this information readily available throughout the year and during comp as well.

- Q. Does IMD provide managers with any training on how to evaluate specialized contributions to people processes?
- A. HCM flags specialized contributions to people processes to managers so in the examples I gave where it relates to an employee being a diversity champion or a recruiting champion or someone whose committed a significant amount of time to one of our training programs, we HCM will post the manager and often times the business head as well on the amount of time they contributed outside of their quote unquote day job.
- Q. How does HCM flag specialized contributions?
- A. We e-mail the managers to let them know.
- Q. Are you aware of any training that's provided to managers on how to evaluate this criteria specialized contributions?

MS. SULLIVAN: Objection, asked and answered.

A. Aside from HCM proactively flagging by e-mailing managers where individuals have made significant contributions, there is no metric or roster that lists specialized contributions that I'm aware of or training.

Q. Is there any training provided to managers in HCM on how to weigh these various factors, these four square bullet points in this document against each other?

MS. SULLIVAN: Objection vague.

A. Managers know that all four of these are important factors to consider when thinking about compensation. They also understand that the factors will have different weights depending on the business or department in question. For example, if you have a small business that's very strategic and growing, one might argue that the indispensability or risk of losing the individual, you know, on balance relative to the other factors may weigh more heavily so as far as whether we have specific percentages adding up to 100 for each of these four bullets, it would be challenging for us to give specific weights to all four factors to all of our businesses which are all very different among themselves and within themselves.

Q. Are you aware of any trainings for managers on that topic, on the topic of how to weigh these various factors?

MS. SULLIVAN: Objection, asked and answered.

- A. As I've said before, our managers are very experienced and well versed and should they have any questions about what they should consider or how they should consider these factors, there is resources for them whether that's HCM or other managers or their business heads.
- Q. Are there any trainings available to them?

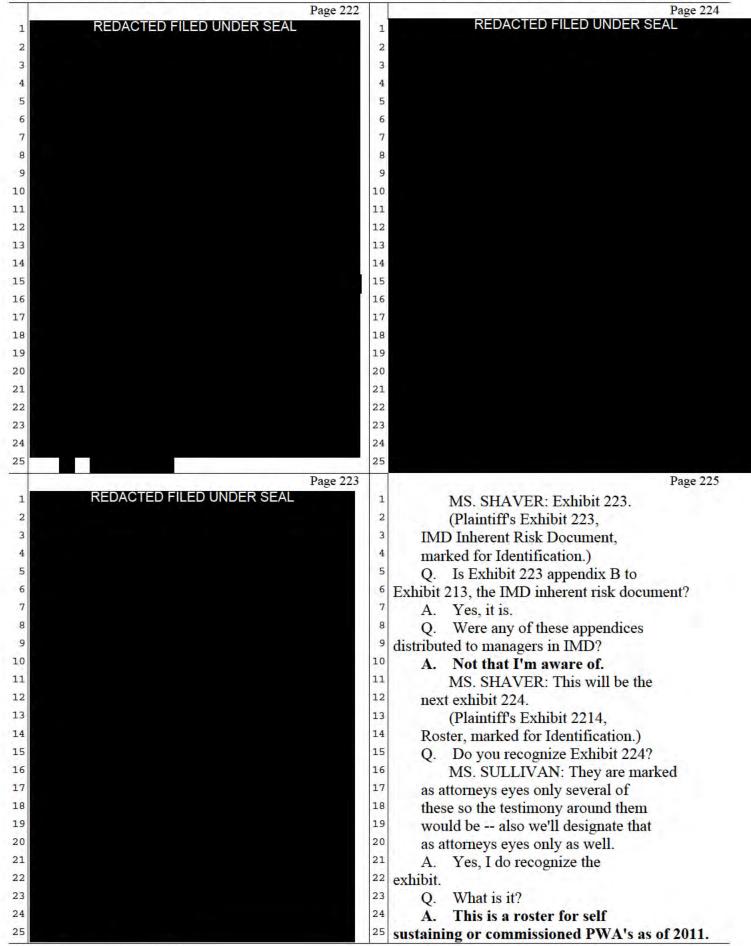

MS. SULLIVAN: Objection vague.

A. Because as I said before this is so nuanced for each business or even within a business it would be -- we feel that guidance is best coming from other managers in the business, the business head or even HCM so as far as a specific training that

6	Q. This applies just to	6
7	commissioned employees?	7
8	A. It applies just to commissioned	8
9	employees.	9
10	Q. Can you please turn back to	10
11	Exhibit 214, the divisional metrics chart.	11
12	Some of the questions I'm going to ask you	12
13	will sound familiar because I asked them	13
14	about an earlier time period and now I need	14
15	to ask them about the time period 2011 to the	15
16	present?	16
17	A. Okay.	17
18	Q. So my first question is whether	18
19	managers are given any training on how to	19
20	weight the various metrics that apply to	20
21	their businesses?	21
22	A. So as I said before in my	22
23	response the approach that was taken in the	23
24	earlier time period that we talked about	24
25	still applies in the current time period.	25
	Page 227	-	Page 229
1	Q. Thank you. Is there any way to	1	REDACTED FILED UNDER SEAL
2	tell which metrics managers have relied on in	2
3	determining their compensation	3
4	recommendations?	4
5	MS. SULLIVAN: Objection vague.	5
6	A. Can you rephrase?	6
7	Q. So, for example, if a business	7
8	unit leader wanted to ascertain which metrics	8
9	a manager relied on in determining	9
10	compensation proposal, would there be any way	10
11	for the business unit leader to do so?	11
12	MS. SULLIVAN: Same objection.	12
13	A. The business unit leader has	13
14	conversations with managers after they make	14
15	their initial recommendation and part of that	15
16	discussion is to understand how managers	16
17	arrived at those numbers so through that	17
18	discussion the business unit leader would	18
19	understand what factors were taken into	19
20	consideration and whether any were weighted	20
21	more heavily than another depending on the	21
22	business and its priorities.	22
23	Q. Is there any way to do so	23
24	without asking the manager orally?	24
25	A. From the business heads	25
